

Cells do not own particles; they store references into the global particle vector.